

Williams Mullen Adds Patent Attorney David Kulik to Growing Intellectual Property Practice

09.21.2015

Williams Mullen is pleased to announce that David Kulik has joined the firm's growing Intellectual Property practice in the Tysons Corner office. Mr. Kulik is the fifth intellectual property attorney to join the firm in the past two years. He is an intellectual property attorney with more than 20 years of experience representing domestic and international clients in a variety of industries.

"We're excited to welcome David to our practice," Intellectual Property Practice chair Craig Mytelka said. "His background and experience allow us to further enhance our intellectual property capabilities in Tysons Corner and throughout our footprint."

Mr. Kulik has represented clients in District Court litigation and throughout the full scope of patent and trademark procurement activities, including patent and trademark appeals and patent interferences and post grant proceedings. He has also represented clients in cases before the International Trade Commission and the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit. He has particular experience in counseling clients in worldwide patent procurement and maintenance strategies. His practice includes patent, trademark and copyright counseling in industries and markets where regulatory issues and government agencies play an important role, such as those where regulations of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives; the Food and Drug Administration; the Department of State; the Federal Aviation Administration; or the Environmental Protection Agency affect the client's market or product.

Mr. Kulik is a member of the District of Columbia Bar and the California Bar. He earned his Bachelor of Arts in biochemistry from the University of California, San Diego, and completed a Graduate Research Fellowship in molecular biology and biophysics at Northwestern University. He received his Juris Doctor from the George Washington University Law School.
